

They see mess I see lots of toys

*They hear loud music I hear happy noise
I see mud all over my shirt
They see dust
They see ice cream
no more play*

I see all mine!

I see more hours

left in the day

They say early bed

I say half-past nine

I see lollies

They see decay

I see a year

They see a day

They see a garden I see worms

They see a lot of very hard work

I think CLIMB

when I see a wall

They think CAREFUL

YOU MIGHT FALL

Fold this line first, so your page has a crease in the middle.

Fold these lines second, so that the top of your page forms a point.

Fold these lines third - can you see your plane take shape?

Fold your page down the middle again.

Fold these lines fourth. Now your plane has wings!

We hope you enjoyed the poem Viewpoints from Michelle Taylor's new book 100 Ways to Fly
